

February Newsletter

Room 101 – Mrs. Beebe

Happy February! I am so proud of these preschoolers and what they are doing. They are all working well together as a group, learning and cooperating with one another in all aspects of our preschool day. The children are having a great time using the sleds and shovels on the playground! It's fun to have fresh snow! We continue to remind children how to play safely on the playground in the winter. And the kids have shown flexibility and attention when we have closed the climber when it is too slippery.

February Learning Themes

Friendship:

I selected the friendship learning theme because making friends is a life-long skill. Friendship activities are important to preschool children's social growth. Learning how to share and get along with others is the foundation for building strong relationships with others.

Love and Valentine's Day:

We will continue to learn about kindness, compassion and loving others. We will incorporate literature into our learning and share our own stories about these skills.

My healthy body:

Not only will we be working on being kind and a good friend to others, but we will also learn how to be kind to ourselves. We will learn about our five senses, eating right, exercising and how our body works. We will incorporate informational literature and hands-on activities to help us learn about healthy bodies. The dramatic play area will be transformed back to housekeeping where we can pretend to cook and clean and use friendship skills daily.
